Kevin Jewell was raised on a small farm in NE Iowa and grew up showing P.O.A ponies all over the United States. He decided if he wanted to become a horse trainer, he should go to farrier school as part of his resume. At age 18, Kevin went to Farrier school, and then at age 21, he went through Auctioneer College.

Kevin successfully trained and showed Appaloosas for many years and then switched over to mainly reining and ranch horses. He has judged in nearly every state and many foreign countries, as well as Australia.

Kevin has been married for 39 years and has 3 children, and 4 grandsons.
